

The Montana DRIVE Facility

The Montana DRIVE Program began in 1979 in beautiful Lewistown, Montana. The track is surrounded by seven mountain ranges and wheat fields. The specially-designed, closed driving track is built on former runways that were constructed for training bomber pilots during World War II. The driving track was completely resurfaced in 2004 and includes a skid pad.

The Montana DRIVE facility is three miles west of Lewistown, MT and adjacent to the Lewistown Airport. The classroom is housed in a blue building constructed in 2016, next to the track beyond the Lewistown Raceway. Turn off Highway 87 onto Upper Cottonwood Creek Road (Torgerson's Case Equipment building is on the corner). Drive one mile down this road and then turn left at the Lewistown Raceway sign. Look for signs with the blue MT DRIVE logo. Follow the white line guiding you two miles past the raceway to the new blue building and big white school bus in the distance. Detailed directions are included on the workshop confirmation.

If you are going to be late or not able to attend, please call the Montana DRIVE office: 406.444.4432.

MONTANA DRIVE CLASSROOM & VEHICLES

In 2016, a new classroom building and storage shed was built to replace the aging trailers that served the program for nearly 40 years. As of 2017, over 14,000 drivers have been trained in Lewistown since the Office of Public Instruction Advanced Driver Training Program began the summer of 1979.
