

Title III Grant Application Checklist

Title III grant funds are provided to districts in order to supplement the education of English learners (See: Title III Use of Funds).

In order to qualify for Title III funding, districts must meet certain requirements as laid out in ESSA (See: Title III Grant FAQ) and collaborate with the OPI's Department of School Innovation and Improvement. Under the Title III State Formula Grant, schools may obtain funds even when they do not have enough EL students to meet the monetary requirements by forming or joining a consortium with one or more other districts (See: Consortium Guidelines for Title III and Current List of Title III Districts and Consortiums).

Qualifying for Title III funds generally takes two years, as districts must document their identification and service of ELs as proof that they are fulfilling their responsibilities under Title I before receiving supplemental Title III funds. This checklist should serve as a short reference for districts to track their completion of all necessary steps.
