NEW COURSE OFFERINGS

The University of Montana, the Phyllis J. Washington College of Education, and the Department of Teaching and Learning connect educators across Montana. Students at Flathead Valley Community College and Helena College now have the opportunity to earn a Bachelor of Arts in Elementary Education from UM without having to leave their communities. Through these partnerships, distance students begin classwork in their third and fourth years via live video conference with UM professors as groups in classrooms at Helena College and Flathead Valley Community College.

PROGRAM SPOTLIGHT

The Department of Teaching and Learning prepares educators to teach anywhere in the world. Our graduates have an impact on the life trajectories of children and youth using universal approaches to teaching and utilizing individualized intervention strategies. Through our signature clinical learning experiences and closely-aligned coursework, graduates are prepared to be transformational teachers. We change lives.

STUDENT QUOTE

"UM's teacher education program provided very helpful instruction and information that has helped me be an effective teacher. Everyone in the department was very helpful and was able to give clear answers to my questions. I feel ready to be an educator in any district I would like to work in."
